Rules of Brainstorming: -

Defer Judgment: Do not criticize or evaluate flavor ideas during the initial brainstorming phase. Even "bad" ideas can trigger brilliant, workable combinations.

Encourage Wild Ideas: Aim for unconventional, "crazy" combinations (e.g., pairing miso with chocolate). AI excels at identifying non-obvious, data-driven connections (such as aroma molecule overlaps) that human chefs might overlook.

Go for Quantity: Generate as many ideas as possible. The goal is to have a high volume of potential combinations to sift through later.

Build on Ideas of others: Use "Yes, and..." rather than "No, but...". Use the AI to expand on an initial, rough idea (e.g., "What if we add basil to that mango.

There are some other rules are found for brainstorming as shown in below figure: -

- Stay focused on the topic
- Be visual
